OCHN TRAINING PROGRAMS

OCHN TRAINING PROGRAM

Program Description

Oakland Community Health Network (OCHN) provides a wide variety of educational, professional development, certification, recovery, and community awareness training programs designed to improve knowledge, increase competency, strengthen community partnerships, and support recovery-oriented systems of care.

Populations Served

The Training Program primarily serves individuals who live and/or work within Oakland County, Michigan. This includes behavioral health professionals, individuals receiving services, family members, caregivers, healthcare professionals, substance use professionals, law enforcement personnel, educators, community members, and other stakeholders. However, Training Program events are frequently accessed by individuals in surrounding counties and across the state. In 2025 over 12K individuals participated in training events.

Settings and Times of Operation

Training programs may be offered in person, virtually, online, or through blended learning formats depending upon the curriculum requirements and courses being offered. Most are offered Monday through Friday during business hours (8am-5pm). However, significant effort is made to provide access to events in the evening and on weekends. While most in-person trainings are done out of our centrally located Troy office, arrangements for off site trainings can readily be made.

Payers, Funding Sources, and Fees

The Training Program operates as part of the administrative structure of OCHN and is budgeted accordingly. Training events are provided free of charge to all participants.

Referral Sources

Participants of OCHN's Training Program come from a variety of sources of which the primary are behavioral health professionals, individuals receiving services, family members, caregivers, healthcare professionals, substance use professionals, law enforcement personnel, educators, community members, and other stakeholders, in Oakland County. Significant advertising is done to increase awareness of events being held at OCHN, how to register, and how to participate. Specialty training services, such as those for law enforcement, have targeted advertising to the employers of targeted participants. Community training events, such as Mental Health First Aid, are advertised to community organizations, such as community groups, religious organizations, and many others so that they may refer participants to training events.
